Sirs:

I am pleased to submit the annual report on the activities of the Economic Development Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, for fiscal year 1984, as required by the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, as amended (42 U.S.C. 3217).

FOREWORD

During the last four years, this country has sown the seeds and begun to reap the harvest of a healthy and robust economy. Our recovery, now eight quarters old, has been the strongest since the Korean War. During this period, total employment grew by about seven percent and total real personal income grew about ten percent. The inflation rate declined considerably from 1981 to the present and is now at the lowest level since 1967. This noninflationary growth has already done much to restore public confidence in both the vitality and stability of our economy. It should lead to an even more vigorous and productive economy in 1985 and in future years.

I share President Reagan's view that long-run economic growth is ultimately dependent on the private sector. This Administration is dedicated to fostering an environment where business, and thereby workers and investors, can thrive and prosper. To achieve this objective, we have undertaken major initiatives to reduce taxes, reduce the growth in Federal spending, and eliminate unnecessary and onerous regulation on industry and trade.

We have also improved economic conditions through better administration of existing programs. One important method has been to promote and participate in public-private partnerships to develop our economy or otherwise promote the general welfare. In 1984, EDA worked closely with state and local governments, business, and community organizations in investigating, planning, and executing development projects. In many cases, we provided direct financial assistance to these projects through grants for planning, technical assistance, or the construction of development facilities.

EDA's University Center program is one example of successful public-private cooperation. During the last year, we funded 41 public and private universities to provide technical assistance for development efforts within the areas they serve. These centers worked together with public and private organizations and, in some situations, developed plans and proposals for public-private ventures.

I welcome this opportunity to present our 1984 program for your review. We have worked diligently to select the best available proposals, and we believe the resulting projects can help produce meaningful local development.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ADMINISTRATION

The Economic Development Administration (EDA) undertook the following activities during FY 1984 with an appropriation of $266 million:

Public Works

EDA awarded $170 million in grants under its public works and development facilities program to local units of government, Indian tribes, and nonprofit organizations. Approximately $130 million was approved for 211 projects under Title I of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965. Forty million dollars was approved for 83 projects consistent with Public Law 98-8, the Emergency Jobs Act of 1983. A total of $35.4 million was awarded for 75 projects to create construction jobs.

In response to the Administration's emphasis on debt recovery, EDA collected more than $17.3 million in public sector debt. This removed 200 debtors from the delinquent list on the basis of collections of more than $2 million. EDA managed 517 active loans with an outstanding principal balance of $239 million. Collections totaled more than $15 million. Through improved project management practices, EDA identified project funds that could be deobligated. A total of $21.2 million was deobligated including $15.4 million in regular public works projects and $3.1 million in Local Public Works (LPW) projects.

Business Loans

The business loan program offered guaranteed loans to private lending institutions on behalf of private borrowers in economically distressed areas. In considering loan guarantee applications, EDA complied with all statutory requirements, including reasonable assurance of repayment and the absence of private financing. EDA reviewed 11 projects totaling $40.0 million and approved one 72.7-percent guaranteed fixed asset loan of $11 million to renovate a historical amusement park. EDA strengthened its servicing and liquidation activities, resulting in the collection of $85.1 million. Liquidation efforts alone collected $21 million.

Technical Assistance

Under its national program, technical assistance funded 27 projects for approximately $2.5 million. This included $500,000 transferred from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to provide assistance to minority-led cities and counties to enhance private sector development. In addition, eighty-two state and local projects received approximately $2.5 million in technical assistance funds.

Economic Adjustment

The Sudden and Severe Economic Dislocation (SSED) strategy development and implementation grants provided $17.8 million to prepare strategies, to capitalize revolving loan fund programs, to assist industrial site development, and to provide training and business development services. EDA expended $17.7 million on 39 grants to recapitalize existing projects and to establish new revolving loan funds.

The Office of Economic Adjustment responded to 29 actual or threatened dislocations.

Planning

EDA awarded 613 economic development planning grants totaling $26.9 million. Planning grants assist states, cities, counties, multicounty development districts, and Indian tribes and councils to undertake and maintain an economic development planning process.

Research and Evaluation

EDA awarded 23 research grants totaling approximately $2.2 million for studies on a wide range of economic development topics, including federally assisted employee buyouts of manufacturing plants and analysis of advanced technology small business incubator facilities. It completed 21 research studies begun in previous years. A handbook entitled "Coping With the Loss of a Major Employer" will assist communities experiencing economic dislocations.
